

THRESHOLD-BASED DATABASE SYNCHRONIZATION SYSTEM AND METHOD

ABSTRACT

A system, method and computer program product are provided for decreasing the time with which a first table and a second table is synchronized. Initially, a threshold value amount, i.e. monetary value, is identified. In use, the first table and the second table are synchronized. The manner (such as speed) with which the synchronization is executed may then be based on the threshold value amount.

XACTP011

10045609 "102301
FOE201" 60954001